DePauw Freedom of Expression
The DePauw University Mission is to develop leaders the world needs through an uncommon commitment to the liberal arts. Our mission rests on transcendent priorities that include:
- An unparalleled student experience that, in the spirit of the best liberal arts tradition, intentionally integrates students' academic and co-curricular learning.
- A strong community of educators with a deep commitment to teaching, scholarship, creative expression, and co-curricular learning.
- A campus culture in which every student, regardless of identity, background or financial circumstances, thrives at DePauw and has full opportunity to participate in all aspects of a DePauw education.
- Freedom of Expression for all members of our campus community. Freedom of Expression refers to the right to hold opinions without interference and includes the "freedom to seek, receive, and impart information and ideas of all kinds…orally, in writing, print, art or through any media. Also, verbal and nonverbal behaviors that express a person's opinion, point of view or identity." (International Standards on Freedom of Expression Universal Declaration of Human Rights Article 19)
- A resolute commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion made explicit to those whom we invite to join our community; we should not be afraid to publicly state that these are aspirational values – that part of our mission is to figure out together what it means to study, work and live in a diverse, equitable and inclusive community.

First-Year woodwind, brass, percussion, harp, strings and keyboard auditions

Auditions for first-year woodwind, brass, percussion, harp and keyboard students that must participate in large instrumental ensembles (music majors and CLA Honor Performance Award participants) will be held Monday, Aug. 22. Each musician should select a "home" ensemble's audition repertoire from which to audition. All major instrumental ensemble directors, Craig Paré (bands), Steven Snyder (jazz ensemble) and Orcenith Smith (orchestra) will sit on a panel to hear auditions.

All string players (regardless of year in school) should contact Professor Smith at osmith@depauw.edu to schedule an audition prior to first day of class.

Audition registration for woodwind, brass, percussion, harp and keyboard is here.

Voice and piano auditions

■ Voice

Students who have had no previous instruction in voice should register for MUS 905, Beginning Class Voice I, when it is offered. Students in the College of Liberal Arts who have studied voice privately in high school and wish to take individual lessons will need to audition. Students should choose an audition time on the sign-up sheet on the bulletin board outside the School of Music Office. If in-person auditions are not possible, students are to record one song that best displays their vocal accomplishments. Performances with accompaniment tracks or live accompaniment are preferred, but a cappella performances will be accepted. Video is preferred and you may use whatever recording device you have available. Recordings should be emailed to André Campelo at andrecampelo@depauw.edu. If the recording file is too large to send as an email attachment, please send via Google Drive. For more information, contact André Campelo at ndrecampelo@depauw.edu.

■ Piano placement

School of Music students: Professor May Phang contacts all new music students over the summer to assess piano background and place everyone in the appropriate class sections. Students with advanced training can request to take the piano proficiency exam before arriving on campus. Students wishing to pursue this option or anyone with questions about the piano requirements at DePauw may contact Professor Phang at mphang@depauw.edu for more information.

College of Liberal Arts students: Piano instruction is available for all levels of students, from beginning to advanced. Please contact Professor Phang at mphang@depauw.edu for more information and placement.

College of Liberal Arts majors interested in pursuing a music minor, adding a music major, or transferring to the School of Music should contact piano Professor Phang at mphang@depauw.edu at their earliest convenience to discuss options and any audition requirements.
