

Dr. Frederick Hendricks Student Travel Award Application

The Dr. Frederick Hendricks Student Travel Award is an award of up to $500 to promising students to help support travel to a scientific meeting where they will present their findings. This award was made possible by a generous donation of Dr. Frederick Hendricks, '58.

Name:	E-mail:
Major(s):	Graduation year:

Application materials:

1. Provide a brief summary of the project you are planning to present while you have been a student at DePauw. Include the title of the project(s) and a short description/abstract.
2. Provide contact information for two references (instructors, advisors, supervisors, principal investigators, etc.) who may be consulted regarding your application. Your direct research supervisor should be included as one of the references.
3. Provide the title and date of the conference or meeting and an itemized budget of the projected travel expenses you will incur. Include any other sources of funds for travel (DePauw or otherwise).
4. Indicate if you have previously received a Hendricks Award. (Prior awards do not immediately disqualify an applicant but the department would like to ensure that as many students benefit from this award as possible.)

Please return application materials (email or hard copy) to Becky Kinney, Secretary, Biology Department, rebeccakinney@depauw.edu.

A faculty committee will review the applications and inform students who have been awarded the funds.

Thanks for your application!