RECRUIT AT DEPAUW

Employers and internship providers from diverse industries regularly recruit and hire our students and recent graduates for jobs and paid internships. Through a rigorous and respected liberal arts education, DePauw students learn to think critically and analytically, act decisively and innovatively create unique solutions. They receive an intensely rigorous education in a wide range of academic majors, from economics to biochemistry, physics and political science. Meanwhile, all DePauw students are bolstered by the well-rounded liberal arts curriculum and experiences that enable them to produce results from their first day on the job.

Where we’ve been

Our students have interned and been hired in businesses and organizations around the world. From Winter Term experiences hosted by alumni to internationally competitive internships, our students thrive in all sorts of professional environments. DePauw students have interned at Fortune 500 companies, nonprofits, major media outlets and the Smithsonian – and these are only a few samples. DePauw students’ liberal arts education prepares them to think, speak and write effectively, act decisively, work in teams and manage projects efficiently.

Experienced for Experience

DePauw students benefit not only from classroom lessons and theory, but also from their roles in on-campus and community organizations. They are leaders. We have a globally minded, service-oriented student body that is focused on impacting the community in numerous ways.

- Sixty percent of students have at least one international experience, often lasting a semester or more.
- More than 80 percent of students participate in an internship, practicum, field experience, co-op or clinical assignment by the time they graduate.
- Eighty-three percent of seniors report engaging in service while at DePauw.
- Nearly 90 percent of students have an off-campus experience, including coursework, an internship or Winter Term experience.
In Their Words
What is the benefit of having DePauw students intern at your company or organization? Hear what employers have to say:

“We have found that DePauw students easily embrace the values of working at a small, tightly knit organization like TSG while bringing world-class technical skills. We have successfully hired multiple interns and full-time graduates based on their deep technical abilities and easy fit within our culture.”
» DAVE GIORDANO, founder and president, Technology Services Group

“We have had many interns over the years at our foundation, but [our intern from DePauw] excelled more than any other student and came to us with incredible skills and abilities. She used her previous experiences to solve different problems, such as dealing with students during classes, working with volunteer parents, and arranging logistics and accommodations. We hope she will come back in the future and that DePauw will provide more students opportunities with our foundation.”
» YAN ZHANG, Zhang Xue Liang Educational Foundation, China

“DePauw supports students’ development through heart and spirit. Graduates demonstrate a strong appreciation for collaboration, communication skills and an insatiable appetite for continuous learning. These traits, combined with graduates’ overall enthusiasm for life, position DePauw as one of the top academic partners for Cancer Treatment Centers of America.”
» LAUREN SCHUELER, director of strategic workforce planning, Cancer Treatment Centers of America
