FERID MURAD MEDAL

The Ferid Murad Medal recognizes the senior who has had the most significant scholarly and/or artistic achievements during his or her time at DePauw. The award is named after DePauw graduate and Nobel laureate Dr. Ferid Murad, class of 1958. In 1998, Dr. Murad received the Nobel Prize in Medicine for his discovery of the role of nitric oxide in the cardiovascular system, which led to changes in treatment following a heart attack.

Ferid Murad Medal Recipient Abigail Martin

During my five years at DePauw, I have earned a Double Degree (both a Bachelor of Music and a Bachelor of Arts) with three majors (Voice Performance, Peace and Conflict Studies, and Religious Studies) and completed the Honor Scholar Program with distinction. I entered DePauw with the hope of working toward an integration of peacebuilding work and the arts, particularly music. I pursued each of my interests at a high level, and, as I grew older, increasingly developed academic pursuits that were interdisciplinary and influenced by each of my fields of study. My academic work has always had a practical component and is therefore inseparable from my work outside the classroom. Within the School of Music, I developed skills as a performing artist, culminating in two capstone performance projects: my Honor Scholar Thesis Recital and my Senior Recital. Through participation in DePauw mainstage productions, including four operas (notably as Barbarina in Le Nozze di Figaro), two musicals (notably as Sister Mary Patrick in Sister Act), and a play (Antigone), I grew as both an actress and singer, rounding out my theatrical education as an Assistant Stage Manager for the opera Cendrillon. In 2015, I was accepted into the Franco-American Vocal Arts Academy in Périgueux, France, for a two-month-long performance intensive, and I earned first place at the National Association of Teachers of Singing state competition. For my Honor Scholar Thesis, I developed a two-hour interactive performance around the presentation of Emily Dickinson in art songs. Amidst my performances of pieces by four prominent composers, I invited the audience into activities designed to spark conversations about the ethics of using Dickinson texts (a format and topic influenced by my Peace and Conflict Studies work). The innovative recital workshop was groundbreaking, particularly for the School of Music, and has since influenced other performances. My senior recital, “In Our Mother’s Arms,” is also a complete artistic production, reflecting on themes of family, motherhood, and childhood. Through my work in Peace and Conflict Studies (PACS), I pursued research opportunities while also conducting practical, social-justice-based work on campus. In 2016, I served as a summer research assistant for Dr. Rachel Goldberg, which led to two joint national conference presentations. On campus, I led Restorative Justice, helped to plan DePauw Day of Dialogue, and worked toward Social Justice initiatives in the School of Music. In 2018, I was recognized as the first winner of the PACS Praxis award for these efforts. In my coursework, I began focusing increasingly on conflicts with an ethno-religious dimension, with an eye toward the influence of constructions of gender, particularly masculinity. The addition of my third major (Religious Studies) reflected this focus, as did my capstone projects in both majors. My Religious Studies thesis, entitled “Authorized by Blood: The Role of Religion and Religious Figures in Narratives of the ‘Troubles,’” used narrative analysis to explore the place of religion in the civil conflict that ripped through Northern Ireland during the late 20th century. My PACS thesis, currently under the working title “Militant Men and Disappearing Women: The Construction of Masculinity in Boko Haram,” uses content analysis of statements and videos by leaders of Boko Haram as well as stories by girls and women captured by the Islamist-jihadist organization to investigate how constructions of masculinity affect the violent actions of the organization, particularly toward women. Ultimately, my education has led me to seek a term of service in the Peace Corps (beginning May 30, 2019), which I intend to follow with the pursuit of further education in the field of International Peacebuilding—scholarly work with important and necessary practical ramifications in the world.

WALKER CUP

The Walker Cup is awarded each year to the graduating senior who has done the most for DePauw University during his or her college career. The prize was established in 1926 by a gift from Guy Morrison Walker, Class of 1890, a successful businessman and presidential advisor. Traditionally, the Walker Cup recipient speaks at commencement.

Walker Cup Recipient Liam Byrnes

Liam Byrnes is an Honor Scholar, Bachelor of Musical Arts Major, and Political Science Minor from Naperville, IL. During his four years at DePauw, he has supported students through all phases of their DePauw experience. For prospective students, Liam served as an admissions ambassador. His First-Year Mentor and Peer Mentor Program Specialist positions aimed at providing all first-year students with a safe and welcoming home. Liam has worked to prevent power-based personal violence, serving as a committee member and intern for the Green Dot Program. A three-year member of Civic Fellows, he believes a complete DePauw experience entails serving and engaging with the broader Putnam County community. Liam serves as a Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA), representing abused and neglected children as they seek a safe, permanent home. To increase legal access in the community, he helped establish a free legal clinic at the Putnam County Courthouse. Liam also taught at the Indiana Women's Prison and the Putnamville Correctional Facility, experiences which inspired his honor scholar thesis topic. He is a proud member of Pi Kappa Lambda, Pi Sigma Alpha, Order of Omega, and Delta Upsilon. Liam is a Men's Hall Alumni Association Endowed Scholarship Recipient, two time winner of the Margaret Noble Lee Oratory Award, and was named the top speaker at the 2018 Indiana State Debate Tournament. For fun, he sings in DePauwCappella and hosts a weekly political radio show, DePauwlitics. Upon graduation, Liam will be teaching in Thailand through a Fulbright English Teaching Assistantship.
